"Pressestimmen A captivating guide to finding one's way in the wild. (Wall Street Journal)Gooley's approach is a refreshing alternative to the encyclopaedic-style of many nature books. (Geographical)What's wonderful about this book is not just that it is full of helpful instructions for decoding the numerous clues the Earth provides to its workings - from the flick of a lizard's tail to a flutter in a bramble hedge - Gooley also communicates and inspires a joyful awe in the countless daily occurrences which offer observant travellers a key to the planet's miraculous system. (Big Issue)It's a thoughtful, lyrical book about the hidden connections between flora and fauna, the landscape and the weather, and most of its wise and wondrous observations are gleaned from the author's rambles around the English countryside. . . It's a paean to the beauty and majesty of nature, especially the nature we overlook in our back gardens and local parks. And so, amid the botany and zoology and meteorology there are snatches of pure poetry. . . And like all the best books, it makes the world around you a lot more interesting. (The Spectator)Gooley offers the reader a chance to recover the outdoorsman's natural sense through 52 'keys', to exchange slow, analytic thinking for the fast thinking that makes connections with nature in a way that few now experience. I recommend turning those keys and seeing what happens. (The Field Magazine) Werbetext The keys to enjoying the outdoors in an extraordinary way, one that is new and ancient.
