"Pressestimmen 'In 'The House That Pinterest Built' (Rizzoli, $65, 272 pp.) Diane Keaton provides a privileged peek into her 8,000-square-foot industrial-chic dream home. It's a sprawling brick structure in west Los Angeles's Sullivan Canyon boasting the kind of rough-hewed, reclaimed features that proliferate on Pinterest, and Ms. Keaton's book takes cues from her preferred inspiration engine. Photos of pools, staircases, ladders and chairs that the actress and author pulled from the site and from her own archives ultimately provided blueprints for her home, offering a unique, crowdsourced twist to the closed-door world of celebrity living. 'Once upon a time, scrap bookers, collage artists, image-driven addicts and appropriators like me were lonely hunters,' Ms. Keaton wrote in the book's introduction. 'Now dare I say billions of people discover, seize and enlarge their reference pool with the variety of beauty allocated from others.' 'The New York Times' In the book ? a part historical photographic essay/style compass/how-to/inspirational coffee table book ? the reader gets a peek into the star's design process from her Pinterest pins to the final product. 'Hollywood Reporter' California-based author, director, and Academy Award winner Diane Keaton has a true passion and keen eye for home design. She decorates and flips homes in her spare time?and her book, The House That Pinterest Built (Rizzoli, out October 10) is her ode to that. Using Pinterest, the actress designed her new, 8,000-square-foot brick home from ?the gifts of other people?s addictive yearnings for the perfect home, with the perfect landscape and the perfect interior.? With this homage to other people?s favorite design elements and personal creations, she?s eager to see how people respond to how she repurposed these ideas.'?domino.com' The style-guide offers glimpses of the new California house?s sprawling rooms, complete with magic touches ? glimmering light fixtures, vintage clocks, rustic wood panels, and more ? pulled from or inspired by Keaton?s boards such as ?Breakfast of Champions.? As Keaton says, 'Who knows, you might find one of your pins here.' 'New York Magazine / The Cut' Über den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende Diane Keaton is an Oscar-winning actress, director, and author. Her design aesthetic has been celebrated in several successful books that she produced, including California Romantica and House. Lisa Romerein is a Los Angeles-based photographer."
